

SELF DECLARATION

I, Koustav Pan, hereby solemnly declare that all the information, projects, designs, source codes, and other materials presented in this portfolio are the result of my own work, effort, and learning. This portfolio has been prepared and compiled by me to demonstrate my technical knowledge, practical skills, creativity, and understanding of modern web technologies.

I confirm that the contents included in this portfolio are authentic and accurately represent my abilities, learning progress, and personal projects. Wherever external resources such as libraries, frameworks, documentation, or publicly available references have been used for learning or development purposes, they have been used appropriately and responsibly as part of the development process.

I further declare that this portfolio has been created solely for academic, professional, and demonstration purposes. The work showcased here reflects my individual effort and commitment toward continuous learning, experimentation, and improvement in the field of web development and software creation.

I take full responsibility for the originality, accuracy, and authenticity of the information and work presented in this portfolio. I understand that any misrepresentation or false claim regarding the ownership of the work may lead to appropriate consequences.

This declaration is made in good faith and with full acknowledgment of its responsibility.
